

Queue to an event

As Admin I want to create an event with a name, day, hour and set limit of persons.

Then the persons have to fill the form to get a ticket with their information and event.

When a person completes the form allows to the next person to complete it.

The Queue finishes when all tickets are sold, and send to another user a message with the apologies explaining that there are no tickets.

When a user completes form its information will be saved to a database

An admin can list all Events

An admin can obtain get all tickets